I was born in Munich in 1967, lived in Buffalo, NY until age 5, then lived in Landshut, Germany, until my abitur, after which I moved to Los Angeles. I received a BFA from Pomona College, CA, in 1990, and a MFA from Montana State University, MT in 1995. After graduating, my husband and I stayed in the tiny Montana town we had moved to for 4 more years. The arid and vast landscape of the big sky country influences my work to this day. After a teaching gig at the University of Iowa for two years I returned to LA where I have been living, painting and teaching ever since. I have had solo shows with the Happy Lion Gallery in LA, the Museum of Art in Roswell, NM; the Missoula Museum of Art; The Dactyl Foundation in NY; and have been in multiple group shows and a few international group shows. I have received the President's and Flintridge Prize at Pomona College; The President's Prize at MSU; the Montana Art's Council Prize for Individual Artist; and received a small NEA grant for a residency in New Mexico.
